INSPECT Fellowship Announcement

Indiana Science Policy: Educate, Collaborate, Transform

Hello students,

We write to inform you of a Fellowship opportunity for current graduate students in the sciences: the Indiana Science Policy: Educate, Collaborate, & Transform Fellowship, the INSPECT Fellowship.

The INSPECT Fellowship is a paid, 10-week fellowship for current science-based graduate students. Selected Fellows are placed as nonpartisan, scientific advisors in specified executive agencies within the state of Indiana. While gaining real-world experience in the role of science in the state-level policy sphere by researching and drafting science, technical, and/or policy issues of agency interest, Fellows will also build their network and expand future career opportunities in the field of science policy.

This Fellowship is a good fit for anyone with an interest in the science-policy interface, and who wants to expand their academic skill set, grow their interdisciplinary chops, and be a part of creating real-world impact right here in Indiana.

For more information, see the attached flyer, detailed overview document, and/or attend one of the virtual information sessions:
